VOLUME—2

JUNE 1973

F O R E W O R D

This volume is the second of a series of publications presenting comprehensive data on the operations of scheduled commercial banks, collected under the Basic Statistical Returns System introduced in December 1972. The data (presented in the volume) represent a coverage of about 99 per cent of the deposits and advances of all scheduled commercial banks. Some important classifications which are not compiled so far are presented in this volume. These include a break-up of outstanding credit according to occupations, given separately for the State Bank of India group and for the 14 nationalised banks and the data for offices opened after nationalisation presented state-wise and bank group-wise. Further, to enable a broad comparison in the growth of deposits and advances in individual states and for different population groups since nationalisation, the relevant data for June 1969 have been specially collected from the banks and are presented for the first time in this publication.

The publication of this volume has been delayed for reasons beyond control. However, the tabulated results for individual banks were supplied as soon as the consolidation was over, as part of the feed-back information. Efforts are being made to reduce the time lag in bringing out the publication of the results of subsequent surveys under the BSR system.

This volume has been prepared in the Credit Planning Cell in close collaboration with the Banking Division of the Economic Department and the Data Processing Division of the Department of Statistics.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

The statistics presented in this volume are based mainly on the data on deposits and advances collected through the Basic Statistical Returns 1 and 2 from all offices of scheduled commercial banks and pertain to the last Friday of June 1973.* The data in Basic Statistical Return 1, relating to advances, are collected in two parts. Part A of the return covers accounts with credit limits over Rs. 10,000 and Part B, accounts with credit limits of Rs. 10,000 or less. In Part A of the return, particulars of the type of account, organisation, occupation, guarantee status, rate of interest, credit limit and amount outstanding are to be reported for each account with credit limits over Rs. 10,000. In Part B of the return, accounts with individual credit limits of Rs. 10,000 and less are to be consolidated according to two criteria viz., occupation and guarantee status. In Basic Statistical Return 2, each office is required to furnish details in respect of its deposits according to type, viz., current, savings, fixed and others. The data received in these two returns for June 1973 are consolidated and the results are presented in this volume in four Sections.

Section 1 gives a table on general information on banking and in summary form, the tabulated results of BSR 1 and 2. Further details of the information in these tables are to be found in the subsequent Sections. Section 2 presents data on the regional distribution of aggregate deposits and total advances. Section 3 provides the break up of deposits according to type. In Section 4 are given tables classifying outstanding credit according to different categories.

Of the 15,247 offices of scheduled commercial banks functioning in June 1973, BSR 1 was received from 15,020 offices with total advances (inclusive of due from banks) of Rs. 6333 crores and BSR 2 from 14,901 offices with aggregate deposits (excluding inter-bank deposits) of Rs. 9130 crores. In terms of the return submitted under Section 42(2) of the Reserve Bank of India Act, 1934 aggregate deposits of scheduled commercial banks were Rs. 9165 crores and total advances Rs. 6412 crores on the last Friday of June 1973. Thus, the coverage of the data in BSR 2 is 99.6 per cent of aggregate deposits and that of BSR 1 is 98.8 per cent of total advances.

For improving the overall coverage, data of aggregate deposits and total advances of significant defaulting branches were obtained from the head offices concerned. These data have been included in the tabulations of aggregate deposits and total advances given in Section 2. As a result, the coverage of the data presented in this Section improves to 99.9 per cent of aggregate deposits and 99.4 per cent of total advances. However, details of deposits and advances (type of deposits and classification of credit) obtained from the returns submitted by branches, are not available in respect of the defaulting branches. Hence the totals of deposits and advances as given in the detailed tables in Section 3 and 4 will be lower than the totals in the statements in Section 2.

Another important difference between the figures presented in Section 2 and those in Section 4 is in respect of the regional break up of credit. The BSR scheme has introduced, for the first time, identification of the district where the unit availing of the credit is located as distinct from the district where the bank office sanctioning and operating the account is located. This detail is available only from Part A of BSR 1 i.e., in respect of accounts with limits over Rs. 10,000. In Part B of the return, giving consolidated information for accounts with credit limits of Rs. 10,000 or less, it is assumed that all such small accounts are utilised in the district in which the sanctioning office is located. The regional break-up of credit, given in Section 2 is according to the district of sanction (i.e., where the office sanctioning and operating the account is located) while the corresponding break-up in Section 4 is according to the district of utilisation (i.e., where the unit utilising the credit is located). Therefore, the State-wise totals in Section 2 will not agree with those in Section 4.

* Similar statistics based on Basic Statistical Returns 1 and 2 pertaining to the last Friday of December 1972 was published in "Banking Statistics" —Basic Statistical Returns, Volume—I December 1972 in November 1973.

Brief explanatory notes on the tables presented in the different Sections are given below :

Section 1

Table 1.1 on the progress of commercial banking presents time-series data for the banking system as a whole, based on sources other than the BSR. The figures of deposits and credit are from the return under Section 42(2) of the Reserve Bank of India Act, 1934. The data on advances to priority sectors are based on special returns received from head offices of banks.

Tables 1.2 to 1.4 on deposits and advances summarise the tables given in Section 2. Data on deposits and advances as on the last Friday of June 1969 given in the tables were specially collected from the banks for comparison with the pre-nationalisation position. The data include figures in respect of offices of non-scheduled banks which have since become scheduled or have been merged with scheduled commercial banks. The data for June 1973 are given separately for all offices and for offices opened after June 1969. Deposit figures exclude inter-bank deposits. Advances comprise loans, cash credit, overdraft and bills purchased and discounted and are inclusive of due from banks.

Table 1.6 brings out the difference in the regional distribution of credit, arising from the distinction introduced between sanction and utilisation. State-wise figures of credit outstanding are given according to both the location of the office of sanction (where the account is operated) and the location of the unit utilising the loan. The difference between the two would indicate the extent to which credit outstanding in the books of bank offices in a State are utilised in other States and vice versa.

Tables 1.7 to 1.11 summarise the detailed classification of the data given in Section 4. Table 1.7 and Table 1.8 give the distribution of outstanding credit for scheduled commercial banks according to occupation and size of credit limit on the basis of account-wise information in BSR 1 — Part A and consolidated information in BSR 1 — Part B. Tables

1.9 to 1.11, however, are from Part A and relate only to accounts with credit limit of more than Rs. 10,000. The total amount of advances covered in these tables will not, therefore, agree with the total advances in Tables 1.7 and 1.8.

Section 2

Tables 2.1 to 2.4 in this Section give the regional distribution of deposits and advances of scheduled commercial Banks according to population—groups, states, districts and centres. In the first two tables, figures for June 1973 are given in respect of all offices as well as the offices opened after June 1969. Besides, the first table also contains the comparative data for June 1969.

As explained earlier, the figures of total advances in this Section are on the basis of office of sanction and not on the basis of utilisation. Also, the totals of both deposits and advances are inclusive of some defaulting branches which did not submit BSR 1 and 2 and hence do not figure in the detailed tables in Sections 3 and 4.

Section 3

The two tables in this Section provide a break-up of deposits according to type of individual States and districts.

Current deposits comprise the following types of deposits (a) deposits subject to withdrawal on demand (other than savings deposits), or with a maturity period of less than 15 days, or on notice of less than 15 days, (b) call deposits withdrawable not later than 14 days, (c) unclaimed deposits, (d) overdue fixed deposits, (e) credit balance in cash credit accounts and (f) contingency unadjusted accounts, if in the nature of deposits.

Savings deposits are deposits accepted by banks under their savings bank deposit rules and would include special savings deposits.

Fixed deposits are deposits with a fixed maturity of not less than 15 days, or subject to notice of not less than 15 days. Cash certificates, cumulative or recurring deposits and kuri and chit deposits are also included here.

Other deposits include staff security deposits, margin deposits and staff provident fund deposits.

Section 4

Tables 4.1, 4.2 and 4.7 give the sectoral pattern of credit i.e., (according to occupation) for bank-groups, regions, states, and districts. The data combine the account-wise information reported in Part A of BSR 1 and the consolidated information given in Part B of the return. In respect of medium and large industries, wholesale trade and financial institutions separate figures were not required to be recorded in BSR 1—Part B and such accounts are included under “all others” in the consolidation. For plantations and small scale industry total figures alone, without break-up, are available in BSR 1—Part B and these are included under ‘others’ in the respective categories. The regional classification of credit in tables 4.2 and 4.7 is on the basis of the district of utilisation and not according to the district where the offices sanctioning and operating the accounts are located. While the occupational classification in table 4.1 is fairly detailed, State-wise and district-wise data given in 4.2 and 4.7 relate to important occupations. The data for ‘Others’ given in these two tables will not therefore agree with the corresponding data for ‘Others’ given in table 4.1.

Tables 4.3 to 4.6 give further classification of credit in respect of all accounts with individual credit limit of over Rs. 10,000 reported in Part A of the return. The scheme of reporting does not provide for detailed classification of smaller accounts viz., those with credit limits of Rs. 10,000 or less.

Table 4.3 provides distribution of individual accounts according to the size of the credit limit. All the accounts included in Part B of BSR 1 are shown under the “Rs. 10,000 or less” category.

The grouping of bank offices according to population, in Sections 1, 2 and 3 is based on the 1971 census, even for June 1969, with the following composition.

The population group “Rural” refers to all centres with a population upto 10,000.

“Semi-urban” centres are those with a population of over 10,000 and upto 1 lakh.

“Urban” centres are those with a population of over 1 lakh and upto 10 lakhs.

“Metropolitan” centres are those with a population over 10 lakhs.

The grouping of banks in tables 1.3, 2.2, 3.1 and 4.1, provides data for three categories of banks : the State Bank Group (8 banks), the nationalised banks (14 banks) and other banks (50 banks). By combining the first two, data may be derived for public sector banks as a whole.
